Our checks with the Social Security people have been fruitful at least from the conversational point of view. We are advised that it would be appropriate for you to apply for certification of credits once again. As a result, I am enclosing a Form OAR-7004 for your completion. Let us hope this will be the last time, but from our previous experiences I will be pleased if only the first three years, 1951, 1952, and 1953, credits are included in addition to the year 1955, certified on the previous request.

We are advised that the credits, and specifically those credits for 1951, 1952, and 1953, have been certified to the record. We are advised further that the reason recording to your individual account had not been accomplished prior to your last request in April is due to what is termed cyclical recording procedures.

I am very sorry that we missed contact by telephone on the evening of July 6 and again on the morning of July 7.

Hoping that this finds you enjoying pleasant weather during your sojourn in New England, I remain

Sincerely yours,

UCRED

Although I cannot be any more certain now than I was in my letter to you of December 19, I believe your credits at Social Security have been straightened out. Even though we do not have an explanation for the original complete failure of crediting, I can give you an explanation with regard to the years which I handled on your behalf.

With regard to the years 1951, 1952, and 1953, credit was refused by Social Security on the ground that the taxes had not been timely paid. I have caused the necessary paper work to be completed between Internal Revenue and Social Security and am now assured that the three years have been credited to your account.

I have no exact explanation as to why the years 1955 and 1956 were not filed upon receipt by Social Security. We are informed, however, that those two years have now been credited to your account.

I am enclosing another Form OAR-7004 for your utilization. I trust that the reply to you from Social Security will be a complete listing of credits to your account. It would be appreciated if you would let me know what answer you receive from Social Security.

Sincerely yours,
